Nixon: U.S. May Bomb North Viets Again

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an expansion of his bombing policy, President Nixon says he will send American planes against military targets in North Vietnam again if enemy troop infiltration imperils the shrinking U.S. force in the South.

In a stern warning aimed at Hanoi, Nixon told his first news conference in 19 weeks Thursday night that if enemy infiltration threatens to intensify the fighting in the South as U.S. troops withdraw:

"I will order the bombing of military sites in North Vietnam, the passes that lead from North Vietnam into South Vietnam, the military complexes, the military supply lines . . . let there be no misunderstanding . . ."

Although there were heavy air strikes against North Vietnamese targets last May and again in November, Nixon's declaration expanded the stated policy on bombing and raised the possibility of increased U.S. air action over the North in the months ahead.

Earlier bombings have been linked to anti-aircraft and missile attacks on U.S. reconnaissance planes over the North—flights the United States claims are made as part of an "understanding" reached with North Vietnam when President Lyndon B. Johnson halted regular bombing of the North Nov. 1, 1968.

Stressing withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam as his central purpose, Nixon also declared that Cambodian forces are now tying down 40,000 North Vietnamese troops who otherwise "would be over (in South Vietnam) killing Americans." He appealed for congressional approval of a quarter-billion dollar aid program to support the Cambodian war effort.

At the same time, he said he could conceive of no circumstances—"none whatever"—under which the United States would again send its own ground forces into Cambodia.

Possibly reflecting his frustration with North Vietnam's conduct in the Paris peace talks, his refusal to exchange prisoners of war, and its potential for stepping up the fighting in the South, Nixon at one point called it an "international outlaw."

But he said the United States intends to persist in the Paris talks as long as the other side is willing, although "we do not have great hopes" for any results.

Nixon, in the otherwise wide-ranging quizzing, did not mention and was not asked about the railroad strike, which occupied much attention in recent days. The strike was called off just as the 7 p.m. news conference was beginning.

On other domestic issues, he said:

—His economic policies are working, the rate of inflation is beginning to recede and an unemployment rate under 5 per cent can be achieved even without the stimulation of a wartime economy.

—He did not think it proper to ask management and labor to hold down prices and wages when government was the "major culprit." But since he has taken such anti-inflationary measures as cutting the budget, "it is time for labor and management to quit betting on inflation and to start help fighting inflation."

—Under no circumstances will he support third-party candidates against Republican candidates in coming elections. "I personally expect to support all of those Republicans who may be running for the United States Senate in 1972 if they want my support, and some of them are members of what is called the liberal wing of the party." He declined discussion of the 1972 presidential race, saying he would "let them speculate on whether I will be a one-term president."

—Donald Rumsfeld will become presidential counselor, and will be succeeded as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity by Frank Carlucci. Nixon promised a high-level administration post for Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., who was defeated in a bid for the Senate.

—On the pending bill to restrict imports of some major consumer goods, he wants the imposition of quotas limited to textiles. To restrict imports of shoes or other items by quota, he said, "would lose us more jobs than it would save, while the textile quotas will save jobs."

On international matters, Nixon said that despite periodic difficulties in U.S.-Soviet relations "the significant thing is that we are negotiating and not confronting."

He declared it is in the vital interests of both the United States and the Soviet Union to limit nuclear arms because of their cost and the danger of a nuclear confrontation.

"So it is with Berlin and so it is with the Mideast," he said indicating he believes the vital interests of the two super-powers will create pressures for agreement in those long-time crisis spots.

Despite a United Nations vote unfavorable to the U.S. on membership for Red China, Nixon said "we have no plans to change our policy" of opposing Red China in a seat for Peking.

Recently Peking received a simple majority vote for membership, but the motion failed because a two-thirds majority was required.

"However," Nixon said, "we are going to continue the initiative that I have begun, an initiative of relaxing trade restrictions, and attempting to open

Seek Teen - Ager In 4 Murders Of His Family

NEW CANAAN, Conn. (AP)

—Four members of a family have been found slain—attacked with ax, knife and hammer and strangled with a mod tie—and police were searching for a 17-year-old son for questioning.

John Rice, chief at a gulf factory, found his wife and two of his children dead and his mother-in-law dying when he went home from work Thursday.

Missing along with one of the family cars was red-haired John Rice Jr., described as 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighing 200 pounds, an honor student senior at New Canaan High School who was about to become an Eagle Scout. Police posted a 13-state alarm for him.

Police said the youth's mother, Janet, 44, died of multiple ax wounds in the head and stab wounds in the neck and chest.

Some Fuel Truckers Still Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many of some 700 striking Cleveland area petroleum truck drivers continued their walkout today despite a back-to-work order and proposed contract which took some men back to their jobs Thursday.

The walkout, which began Sunday, also involved some 600 tank truck drivers in the Toledo, Youngstown and Lima areas. A tentative contract covering petroleum drivers in 13 states was worked out Tuesday in Chicago.

Standard Oil of Ohio said Thursday that its products, carried by Refiners Transport & Terminal Corp., were moving without interference.

Another Refiners terminal in Cleveland, however, had no trucks moving Thursday.

Matlack Inc., another trucking firm, said its facilities at North Madison, Canton and Atwater were still being picketed.

F.J. Egnor & Sons Inc. said its truck facilities in Akron, Niles and Findlay were operating Thursday, but another terminal at Richfield in Summit County was closed down by the strike.

Teamster officials ordered strikers back to work Wednesday after negotiation of the proposed contract, which would boost drivers' present $4.07 hourly pay by $1.65 over three years.

Members of Teamsters-affiliated Petroleum Truck Drivers Local 545 in Cleveland, who had asked for a $1.65 raise, are to vote on the contract proposal Sunday.

Heavy Snow Hits Northern Midwest Area

14 Inches Fall In Wisconsin; Roads Blocked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow walloped the northern Midwest today, piling a foot or more on south-central Wisconsin.

Freezing rain south of the snow belt glazed highways in scattered areas from the central Plains to the Great Lakes.

Fourteen inches of snow blanketed the Madison, Wis., area. A deputy sheriff termed Dane County roads "one massive traffic jam." The snow piled up at the rate of an inch an hour for a time Thursday night.

Seven inches fell on Milwaukee and on Lansing, Mich. Three to 6 inches was common from the central Plains to the western Great Lakes.

Travelers warnings remained in effect from Nebraska to Illinois. A hard glaze of ice covering much of Nebraska brought a plea by state highway officials for motorists to stay off interstate highways.

The snow and ice caused cancellation of some airline flights in and out of Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Thunderstorms broke out in springlike mild weather covering much of regions south of the storm belt. Temperatures soared into the 60s and 70s Thursday from the Southern Plains to the Southeast.

The mercury hit Dec. 19 record highs with 69 in Kansas City, 72 at Birmingham and 78 at Macon, Ga.

Light rain sprinkled sections of the Pacific Northwest, but clear skies were common from the Southwest to the south Atlantic states and most of the eastern Seaboard.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 12 at International Falls, Minn., to 75 at Miami, Fla.

Rule Asphyxiation In Youth's Death

MARION, Ohio (AP) — The coroner has ruled asphyxiation caused the death of William F. Brushwood, 17, of Marion, whose body was found Wednesday in a field near here.

The body had a paper bag pulled over the head and a car of glue was found nearby. Police said the boy had appeared five times before Marion County Juvenile Court on glue-sniffing charges.

conference report is rejected." Proxmire said in an interview. He would not say whether he has the votes to reject the report outright.

"I'd say the one and only way they can get the transportation bill through the Senate is to let the SST funds," he said.

"If not, we are prepared to discuss this for several weeks because that's how long I think it will take to get out all the facts."

Proxmire predicted an SST program at $210 million would result in an eventual cost over run reaching up to $300 million, saying the slowdown would mean later spending would have to be done at higher prices.

"But I don't see any point in slowing it down," he said. "It should be stopped."

Proxmire and other senators contend no SST should fly until questions about its impact on the environment are resolved.

They question the current need for the plane, predict the government would inevitably lose money on its contract with the private firms developing the plane, and see the project as a symbol of misplaced priorities and unchecked technology.

On the other side, SST backers contend killing the program will erode the advance of American technology, damage the economy, cause the loss of up to 150,000 jobs and imperil American supremacy in the world's aircraft markets.

The House is expected to act on the conference report Monday. If it approves it, the measure will go to the Senate Tuesday.

Report No Americans Killed In Indochina War Thursday

SAIGON (AP) — Field reports indicate no Americans were killed on the battlefields of Indochina Thursday, the U.S. Command reported today. It was the ninth time this year U.S. forces have gone through an entire day without suffering a fatality in combat, spokesmen said.

No significant action was reported for U.S. forces, underlining the steady scaling down of American ground operations. And the U.S. Command reported only five North Vietnamese and Viet Cong rocket and mortar attacks from 3 a.m. Thursday to 8 a.m. Friday, one of the lightest shelling days of the war.

However, South Vietnamese forces reported a total of 81 North Vietnamese killed deep in the Mekong Delta across the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese troops sweeping through the U Minh forest, a long time enemy base area deep in the Delta, said they killed 30 enemy soldiers with the help of helicopter gunships. Field reports said one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and 15 were wounded.

Fighting raged for the second day near the Cambodian town of Krok about 85 miles northwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that 400 of its Rangers clashed with North Vietnamese troops from the 7th Division during a road-clearing mission Thursday.

Backed by artillery and bombers, the Rangers claimed they killed 31 North Vietnamese and said they found the bodies of 20 more killed by air strikes. Two South Vietnamese were reported killed and two wounded.

In southern Cambodia, meanwhile, Cambodian troops were reported advancing from the northwest and from the south in an attempt to reopen Phnom Penh's Highway 4 to the Sea. Shortages of gasoline and other imports were developing in the Cambodian capital.

Nixon Talk Highlights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, at a glance, is what President Nixon said at his news conference Thursday night:

SOUTHEAST ASIA

The President said he will order a resumption to the bombing of North Vietnam if a Communist buildup endangers U.S. forces in the South. But under no circumstances will U.S. ground forces be sent into Cambodia. He rejected an extended, unilateral cease-fire in Vietnam.

CABINET AND STAFF

Announced Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, will become a full-time counselor to the President. Frank Carlucci will be named to head OEO. Asked about his firing of Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel, Nixon replied: "Certain things happened . . . during which I lost confidence in him and perhaps he lost confidence in me," said Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., defeated in a Senate bid, will get a high-level position in the administration.

ECONOMY

Said inflation has cooled and the nation is entering a period of economic growth. "I believe our economic policies are working," he said.

Quake Damage In Peru Eyed

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Total casualties from the earthquake near the Peru-Ecuador border cannot be estimated yet because many remote areas have not been reached by rescue workers, but 81 deaths have been reported.

Ecuador's defense minister, Jorge Acosta Velasco, said at least 50 persons perished in his country. Peruvian sources said at least 31 of their countrymen died in the quake, which struck late Wednesday night and was centered in Ecuador's Guayaquil Bay about 50 miles north of Tumbes, Peru.

The quake was the strongest registered in Peru since last May 31, when the worst quake in the nation's history left an estimated 70,000 missing or dead and half a million homeless.

Threat Of Fine By U.S. Judge Ends Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's trains thundered down the tracks again today after railroad workers ended a 24-hour strike under orders from Congress, federal courts and union leaders.

"I now order my people to return to work immediately," said strike leader C. L. Dennis after federal judge threatened fines of $200,000 a day if the walkout continued and the government pledged prompt new talks aimed at finally settling the year-long wage dispute.

Negotiations continued today. Striking union members downed picket signs and went back to work in most areas to begin moving stranded commuters, tons of Christmas mail and other rail shipments under a special federal law forbidding further striking until March 1.

It was only the third nationwide rail strike in half a century.

The end of the walkout made unnecessary White House priorities for moving emergency shipments of medical supplies, defense materials, food, fuel and other essential goods by air, ship and truck.

Chief railroad negotiator John P. Hiltz said the industry would begin processing payrolls to put into effect the immediate 13.5 per cent pay hikes Congress or

'No-Fault' Insurance Plan Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Minnesota lawmaker said here Thursday a no-fault auto insurance system would provide "the right amount of settlement" to the "right people, at the right time with no waste."

Sen. Jack Davies testified before the Legislative Service Commission Insurance Study Committee headed by Rep. Robert E. Netzley, R-7 Laura.

Davies said the no-fault system is an alternative to the "wasteful law suit system" where the plaintiff has to prove the negligence of the driver involved to get a money settlement.

Davies sponsored no-fault legislation in the Minnesota Senate in 1969 but the measure was defeated. He said there are plans to reintroduce it next session.

Speaking against the system was Craig Spangenberg of Cleveland, a representative of the Ohio Academy of Trial Lawyers.

He said recent polls indicate that a "strong majority of American people" oppose the American Insurance Association (AIA) no-fault plan.

Under the plan, Spangenberg said, "the bad driver is not to blame and is not responsible for the damage he inflicts on other people nor on their automobiles. The good driver has no right to recover any of his losses."

He said the plan still will "produce problems and rate discrimination. Drivers will still be cancelled or renewals will be refused."

ON THE MOVE — The railroad strike forced a pile up of parcel post over the nation, but a government force end of the walkout has trains moving again. This jam of packages is in West Palm Beach, Fla.

Laird Explains Viet Policy To Senate Panel Members

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird was called before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today to explain President Nixon's broadened North Vietnam bombing policy and request for new aid to Cambodia.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a former secretary of the Air Force, had served notice he would quiz Laird about the bombing policy spelled out by Nixon in a news conference Thursday night.

"We're building up the air war and cutting down the ground war," declared Symington, a frequent critic of Nixon's policies in Southeast Asia.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers chose not to answer Thursday when Symington posed this question: How are North Vietnamese gunners supposed to tell the difference between unarmed U.S. reconnaissance fighter-bombers—which Laird says the enemy is not supposed to shoot down—and the armed fighter-bombers which escort them?

Laird has been giving expanded definitions of circumstances under which U.S. planes might hit North Vietnamese targets under the 1968 bomb-halt understanding.

Nixon affirmed at the news conference that U.S. planes fired upon may strike back at the whole military complex supporting the attacking missile.

Furthermore, the President said, he will order bombing of military sites in North Vietnam if he decides the enemy is developing a potential threat to endanger U.S. forces in the South.

As for the $255-million aid program he wants for Cambodia, Nixon struck at arguments by opponent who express fear the assistance will lead to serious U.S. military intervention.

Rhodes Plans Speech

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The office of Gov. James A. Rhodes said today that the governor will address a joint session of the Ohio Legislature at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 5. He leaves office Jan. 11, and his address will be a final report to the legislators and citizens of Ohio.

Under the plan, Spangenberg said, "the bad driver is not to blame and is not responsible for the damage he inflicts on other people nor on their automobiles. The good driver has no right to recover any of his losses."

He said the plan still will "produce problems and rate discrimination. Drivers will still be cancelled or renewals will be refused."

dowed for nearly 500,000 rail workers along with the strike ban.

"It will undermine our bargaining position," Hiltz complained of the pay raises directly legislated by Congress for only the second time in history, but added, "It's the law and we're not going to jail."

The first time Congress imposed pay hikes was just eight months ago, in a special law to avert a threatened nationwide rail strike by four rail shopcraft unions.

Dennis, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said his 200,000 union members were returning to work under threat of fines and jail sentences, but expressed hope for working out the rest of the settlement peacefully.

The 13.5 per cent immediate pay hike imposed by Congress was part of a three-year, 37 per cent package of wage increases offered by the rail industry but rejected by the unions before the walkout.

The offer would raise current top pay rates—ranging from $3.40 to $3.60 per hour—by $1.32 over three years, but the unions objected to work-rule changes demanded by the industry in exchange for the wage hikes.

At the outset of the conference Nixon put an end to speculation he might undertake a prolonged one-sided cease-fire in Vietnam at Christmas time in hope that the Communists, without formal agreement, would follow suit.

He said the United States is prepared to have limited halts in the fighting over the holiday season—presumably meaning Christmas, New Year's, and the Tet Lunar New Year in Vietnam.

State OKs Amanda Food Program

At their regular Board of Education meeting Tuesday Amanda-Clearcreek received State Department approval on their free and reduced rate lunchroom program.

Under new state legislation, all school districts must offer some program making free lunches available to students meeting certain requirements. Special provisions must also be included for meals at less than the normal rate for persons able to make partial payment.

Amanda Elementary, Clearcreek Jr. High and Amanda-Clearcreek High School have offered well-balanced lunches each school day at a charge of 30 cents for elementary students and 35 cents for junior high and high school students. There will be no cost increase for students buying the regular lunches.

Federal reimbursements will cover loss of revenue for cafeteria operation. Information concerning the program was to be distributed to families in the school district this week. It is suggested that families who feel their children may be eligible apply. Copies of the application form are also available at the Superintendent's Office at the Amanda building. Applications should be signed by an adult member of the family and returned to the superintendent's office.

Any unusual circumstances or hardship which affect the family's ability to pay for school lunches, such as prolonged illness in the family, unexpected expenses due to fire, flood or other natural disasters, seasonal unemployment and other emergency situations, will be considered.

In other business, the board chose Jan. 4, 1971 as the date of their annual organizational meeting. It has been scheduled at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Ralph Morris was employed to fill the vacancy made by Mrs. Rebecca Brotherton. Mrs. Brotherton has been accepted for a leave of absence during the winter quarter.

Activities given approval were the Senior Christmas Dance on Dec. 18, the Stoutsville PTO Carnival Feb. 9 and Junior-Senior Prom on May 15.

Amanda PTO offered to provide funds for installing a fence at the Amanda playground.

The 27-year-old Calley, silent and ramrod straight through four weeks of trial, will tell his own story, attorney George Latimer told the all-officer jury, "thereby giving you a full account of his actions, conduct and behavior."

Conviction of premeditated murder carries a sentence of life imprisonment or death.

The Calley platoon, Latimer said, went into My Lai resentful about the recent deaths of buddies, under strength, under trained and with fresh assurance "that at long last they were going to close with the enemy and get even for the loss of their buddies."

The GIs were told, the attorney continued, that all civilians were gone from the village and "if there were any occupants remaining, they would be Viet Cong or Viet Cong sympathizers."

The general consensus of 35 prosecution witnesses was that Calley's men met no answering fire from the longtime Viet Cong stronghold that day but that the villagers—mostly old men, women and children—were rounded up and executed in cold fury.

The Painful Shoulder

While shoulder pain may frequently be of local origin, such as a strain or sprain of the shoulder joint, its occurrence from remote sources is quite common.

The most important remote source of shoulder pain is in the cervical spine, or neck. A network of nerves, called the brachial plexus, leaves the spine through openings between the bones of the neck, and distribute into the shoulder then downward through the arm to the fingers. It is this network of nerves that gives the shoulder, arm, and hand, motion and feeling, and most importantly, maintains a normal healthy state in the tissues of the joints, muscles and blood vessels.

When the vertebrae of the neck become subluxated, or misaligned, through falls, strains, or other accidents; pressure may be exerted on the brachial plexus nerve network. This may set up an immediate irritation of the nerves resulting in neuritis, or neuralgia pain in the shoulder and arm. In some cases it may be accompanied by numbness and tingling radiating to the fingers.

In these cases the skill and experience of your doctor of chiropractic should be utilized for the correction of the underlying cause. He readily understands the problem involved in a painful shoulder and will institute necessary corrective measure.

Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic under the auspices of the Central Ohio Chiropractic Association.

According To Boyle

By WILLIAM L. CHASE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The door-to-door encyclopedia salesman stood grinning in his gray suit, his left foot already in the door, his right hand swinging forward the bulky briefcase.

I have long been a sucker for door-to-door salesmen; something about the boldness of their approach flusters me, makes me anxious enough to get rid of them that I'll buy most anything.

At various times I've purchased an aluminum umbrella, a watch that tells me the time in Hong Kong as well as Sydney and ripple-sole'd nastic shoes two sizes too small. No matter, say I as a sap to my wardrobe.

After each of these bizarre purchases I've searched for some way to deflect the sales pitch, to send the salesman to find another victim.

As the encyclopedia salesman entered, he was already tumbling with the catch to his brief-case, pulling out a leatherette covered volume from the neat compartmentalized interior and smiling. As we settled in the living room one could perceive that this was a man with a system—even his compartments in the briefcase had compartments and his pitch was perfectly timed so that the words moved neatly with the display of this item or that.

He tolerated no interruptions. "A house without an encyclopedia is just a house," he said. "Not a home. Definitely not a home. Most definitely not." He had spread out on the floor detailed graphs and charts showing one of the benefits which would accrue from diligent reading of his books. I was beginning to get the familiar "rapped feeling" when my son, who is 3½, strolled casually into the room.

"Howdy, sonny," smiled the salesman extravagantly. "Nice kid—definitely a nice kid." My son, Gavin, looked coolly at the man, not returning the smile. Gavin then walked over to the man's briefcase and began pulling out stacks of paper.

The man blanched. "Such a nice little boy," he said, trying to tug the papers from my son's grip without dropping his composure. Once the papers were rumpled, Gavin relinquished them. Next he produced a crayon and began drawing pictures of boats on the man's charts.

The salesman paled, then, throwing his cool to the wind, tried to yank them from Gavin. He concluded his sales pitch quickly, having lost the momentum and my trace-like attention. He beat a hasty retreat and I heaved a sigh of relief. I gave Gavin a strawberry flavored sucker.

A few days later, the doorbell rang. Another salesman. I beamed at him and yelled: "Gavin, come here son... company!"

Laff-A-Day

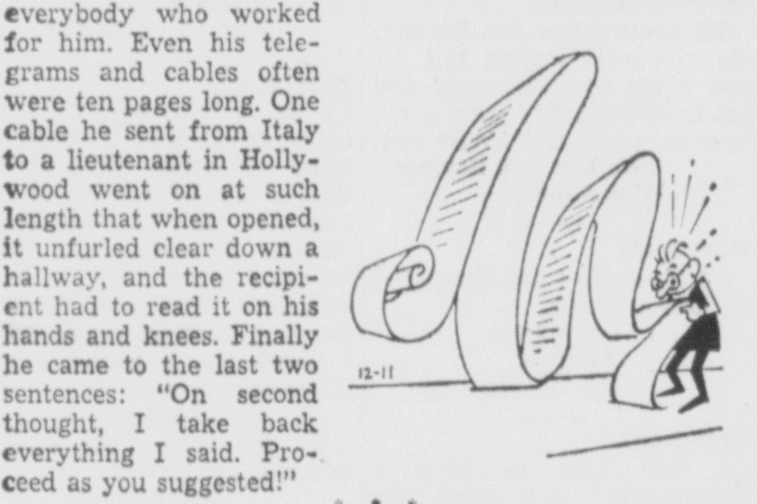

"I can tell you this. Whatever he has is contagious."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

BOB THOMAS, in his book about movie tycoon David Selznick, tells many stories about the endless memos everybody who worked for him. Even his telegrams and cables often were ten pages long. One cable he sent from Italy to a lieutenant in Hollywood went on at such length that when opened, it unfurled clear down a hallway, and the recipient had to read it on his hands and knees. Finally he came to the last two sentences: "On second thought, I take back everything I said. Proceed as you suggested!"

For an example of persuasive salesmanship, we give you the optical goods proprietor who answered a customer's, "Are you absolutely sure these field glasses are high-powered?" with a sale-producing, "Madam, when you use these glasses, anything less than ten miles away will look as though it was behind you!"

The police finally have discovered why an unusually placid and peace-loving termite suddenly had a fit. A tenor began singing, "I dreamt that I dwelt in marble halls."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Two years ago, I wrote about a spectacular hormone-like substance that gave great promise in modern medicine. It is known as prostaglandin.

Many scientists believe it will be the wonder substance of the next decade, comparing well with the discovery of cortisone and even the antibiotics.

Known as a hormone regulator, prostaglandin plays a role in a wide diversification of medical problems. High blood pressure, asthma, thrombosis of blood vessels and male sterility are only a few of the conditions affected by the fourteen known prostaglandins found in body tissue.

Worldwide research is being carried on after being stimulated by the Swedish scientist who did the pioneer work in this field. Dr. Ulf S. von Euler, Nobel prize winner, estimates that more than 50 laboratories all over the world are studying some aspect of this intriguing substance.

It is expected that this vast scientific investigation will uncover many more clinical applications and give us greater insight into medical conditions that have as yet resisted the inroads of science.

A group of surgeons at the Harvard Medical School believe that they can reduce the frequency of lung complications after surgery by teaching their patients to yawn.

By yawning, they reason, the lungs can be deeply inflated and thus prevent the collapse of small areas of the lung.

Dr. Robert H. Bartlett and his co-workers have shown the beneficial effects of this increased ventilation.

At recent meetings of the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Morton Freeman of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City, presented an interesting report on Vitamin A deficiency.

He and his colleagues showed that, in experimental animals, recovery from surgery was less rapid in those who had a marked Vitamin A deficiency.

This knowledge may soon be considered as part of pre-operative preparation of humans for surgery.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, Dec. 11, the 345th day of 1970. There are 20 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, Germany and Italy declared war on the United States.

On this date: In 1816, Indiana became the 19th state.

In 1848, Louis Napoleon was elected president of France.

In 1899, New York Gov. Theodore Roosevelt said he would not run for vice president. He later was nominated by the Republican party and elected vice president.

In 1937, Benito Mussolini announced that Italy would withdraw from the League of Nations.

In 1944, in World War II, German troops under attack by the American 1st Army, retreated across the Roer River.

In 1946, John D. Rockefeller Jr. offered to donate a six-block piece of Manhattan real estate for a headquarters for the United Nations.

Ten years ago — In Buenos

Aires, Argentina, 17 spectators were killed in three separate sports car crashes in the Argentine Grand Prix.

Five years ago — An angry customer at a Chicago bar tossed gasoline into the bar and set a fire that took 13 lives.

One year ago — The Senate passed a tax reform bill that included new Social Security benefits and tax cuts.

Pantyhose Make Fine Fan Belt

WELLINGTON (AP) — The girls in New Zealand are smart when it comes to using their pantyhose as emergency equipment.

The Government Information Office told of one girl who donated her pantyhose to replace a car's broken fan belt — she got the vehicle six miles to the nearest town.

Another girl, a nurse, coming upon a street accident, used her pantyhose as a tourniquet to stop bleeding from a boy's almost severed leg.

Fulbright's 'Age Of Fable'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Senator J. William Fulbright has a new book out, "The Pentagon Propaganda Machine," and, boy! how he is using his prestige as head of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to plug it. In an indirect way, of course. He simply appears on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Face the Nation" program and accuses Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird of misrepresenting facts about the bombing of North Vietnam, adding, as an afterthought, that Laird and his men engage in misrepresentation "all the time." The Pentagon, in short, is accused of maintaining a propaganda machine that tells lies.

There is no reason a Senate committee chairman shouldn't plug a thesis that happens to be printed on the same day his publisher — in this case the Liveright Company — runs an advertisement in the New York Times for his book. But when Fulbright accuses the Pentagon of taking a "top policy role" in the formulation of our foreign policy he is guilty of misrepresentation himself. The plain fact is that poor Mel Laird and his generals and admirals are being dragged along by the White House in a policy of downgrading our military strength as it has not been downgraded since the end of the Korean War.

The troops are coming out of Vietnam and there is every indication that the process will be speeded up as 1972 approaches. But the withdrawal of our Vietnam forces is not the only indication that the Pentagon is facing lean days. The truth about our military cutbacks appears in headline after headline in the local press wherever there are aerospace companies or munitions manufacturers. Unemployment in California, due to the Pentagon's failure to renew air contracts, helped ruin Senator George Murphy's attempt to win a second term and cut Governor Reagan's expected margin in half. There is increasing unemployment in Connecticut and Illinois as the Pentagon cuts back on its munitions orders; the Olin Manufacturing Company laments that a peremptory order from Washington has thrown five hundred cartridge makers on the streets without warning.

Forced to give ground to the new White House priorities that put the fight on inflation ahead of military procurement, Secretary Laird has trimmed his budget requests for the next fiscal year by four billion dollars. We had 3.5 million men under arms at the height of our involvement in Vietnam; by June of 1971 our overall military force will be down to 2.9 million. The Navy is facing up to the probability that some of our big aircraft carriers will be decommissioned. The plans are to put many of our older ships in mothballs. This would force us to rely on our nuclear submarines. While we are contemplating this, however, the Soviets are beefing up their Navy at a fantastic pace and Admiral Rickover has been complaining that we are neglecting our submarine building.

If the Pentagon has a huge "propaganda machine," as alleged by Fulbright, it is being bested every day by the ability of the Senate doves to command the headlines and the airwaves.

Used Tires

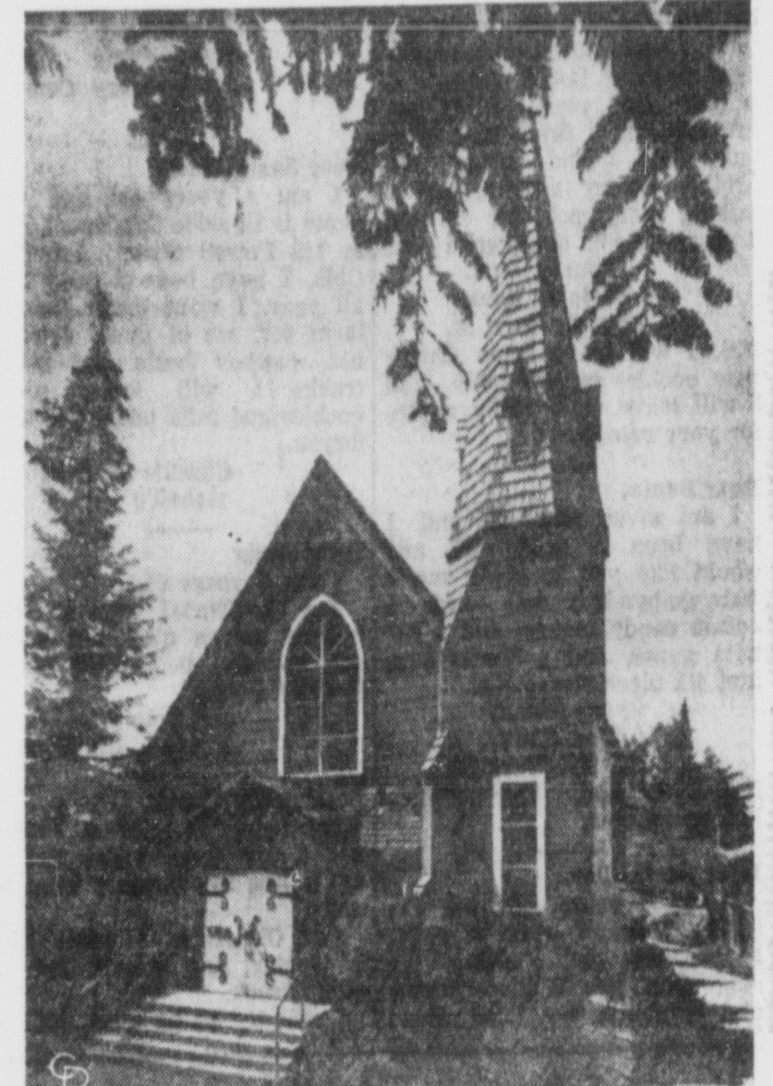

NEW YORK (AP) — Safety tire studs should never be installed on worn tires, even if they haven't been used much. Holes molded into the tires to accept the studs will quickly collect particles of dirt. Experts at Kingrip Division, Kenametal Inc., explain that during installation, the studs may push dirt particles through the casing and ruin the tire.

If we are going to "lower our profile" by pulling our troops from West Germany back to this country, as Senator Mansfield wants us to do, you would think that our neo-isolationists would approve the purchase of more giant cargo carriers. One of these is the Lockheed C5A, which is capable of delivering 265,000 pounds of cargo in western Europe in case of an extremely within five hours. Whole divisions could be moved at scratch by the C5A, and big sums of money could be saved on the bill for quartering soldiers abroad. Yet Senator Proxmire of Wisconsin persists in bad-mouthing the C5A by blowing a routine accident that occurred in defueling a plane on the ground into something monstrous. And the Pentagon order for the big cargo ship has been cut from 115 to 81.

Roger Freeman, the Stanford University economist who recently spent a year in the White House on special projects, has demonstrated statistically that while the cost of our military commitments has gone up by some 60 per cent in two decades (thus keeping about even with inflation), the "social budget" of the U.S. has expanded by more than 1,000 per cent. In short, the Pentagon ceased to be Priority Number One a long time ago.

If this is the best the Pentagon can do, then Fulbright, in his book and in his speeches, is guilty of reviving ancient history to pick on a cripple. Well, Fulbright's "Age of Fable" goes on selling, so why shouldn't Fulbright do as well?

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" CHURCH TO BE MEMORIAL — A historical landmark in Santa Rosa, Calif., where cartoonist Robert L. Ripley was born, "The Church of One Tree" will become the Ripley Memorial Museum after dedication Dec. 21. The church was made famous in a Ripley "Believe It or Not cartoon." Built around 1870, the church was constructed from the lumber of one mighty redwood tree which yielded 78,000 board feet.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Jawboning isn't always meant to keep prices and wages down. It also can be used to talk things up, such as the economy, and it hardly can be denied that the process is already under way.

Reports from Washington indicate, among other things, that President Nixon will seek a huge 8 per cent increase in output during 1971, a rate double that of normal prosperity and which would indicate not a recovery but a boom.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer:

What could be the world's fastest hog is on display at the Cody - Les - Eppes Zoo near Reims, France. It's a 925-pound porker. That's a lot of bacon — or do you prefer pork chops? — packed into one pigskin!

The super swine's name is Mao. Wonder what thoughts that other Mao (address Peking, Red China) has about that?

Since it's such a big ham, that monster porker must be very happy to be in show business.

A musician friend tells us that while the Irish bagpipe has only one reed, the Scottish bagpipe has three. Does this mean it's three times as hard to listen to?

This figure, and earlier suggestions that the economy is stronger than it appears, have been seized by optimists, fools, seers and self-seekers who annually produce forecasts of things to come. A bandwagon has been produced.

Those on the wagon are jawing away about the beautiful prospects for 1971, and though they suspect such a tremendous feat might not be economically possible, they remind themselves and listeners that 1971 isn't an ordinary year.

It will be a political year, they forecast with 100 per cent accuracy, and the quest for political office may tempt a President to produce a temporary and unreal glow on the economy, especially a President who attributes his 1960 defeat to a recession.

Some analysts believe that much of the recent stock market rise is mainly the result of jawboning by brokers and others who wish to believe that the 1971 boom will begin soon, rather than face the stern realities ahead.

Among them: Inflation declines to submit; unemployment may head up over 6 per cent; strikes in basic industries, such as steel, are real possibilities; some industries and individual corporations are financially distressed.

With so many forecasters attempting to talk up the economy, it's worth looking at other opinions. One of them is offered by Edwin Magee, vice president of MacKay-Shields Economics, a large consulting firm.

"No sustained upsurge in general business activity is in sight," he says, "either short-term or long-term, and it's about time we recognized this fact."

Now, contrary to popular belief, economic consultants don't always try to protect themselves by taking the middle road. By defying the popular consensus, they not only stand out but, if successful, may even make big money for their clients. Magee, however, is especially assertive in making his point.

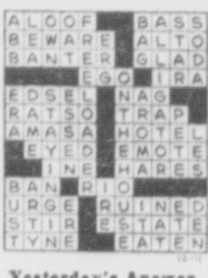

"The businessman who thinks a real upturn is just around the corner is only fooling himself. It's not even in the next town," he says.

Magee does foresee growth, but nothing of the sort envisioned by the Nixon team.

"BITING THE HAND..."—This was the White House scene as President Nixon awarded a Young American Medal for service to Debra Jean Sweet, 19, and she gratefully told him, "I find it very hard to believe in your sincerity in giving an award for service until you get us out of the war." Replied the startled Nixon, "We're doing the best we can." Looking on is FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. Miss Sweet, of Madison, Wis., works for a Lutheran agency in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Maggie and June worked all morning making their snowman. He got so big that they had to fetch a stool and stand on tiptoe to make his arms and to cinder-button him. The mailman helped put on his head.

When they napped that afternoon, the sun shone hot and bright, and the south wind blew. When they woke, their snowy pal had dwindled and his cinder face cried dirty streaks. Sadly they turned away.

Sometimes life is like that snowman — grand and glittering with all the things we have. Then the hot winds of disaster blow, and their importance vanishes and we are left with emptiness.

What makes life meaningful? If possessions can't make us happy, what can?

Our churches have the answer. Through worship and prayer they teach us to find the joys of spirit.

Susan (Mrs. Cliff Warner) and her six months old Ragene made it home safe and sound from their Japan stationed air base and are happily relating their experiences in that far off land to parents, Ernie and Ruth Minor and all the many friends and relatives.

On the Sunday after arrival a big welcome home dinner was held and visiting throughout the day were Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Warner (hobby's parents) and son Brad of Route 3, Circleville, Mrs. Thelma Minor Williams, Kim and Terry of Roundtown, Barbara Minor Ward and her son Scotty Picklesimer, Mr. Leonard Osborne of Columbus, Dora Kay Easter Naperiac and Vaughn Wilson of our village, Ever and June Merriman also Roundtowners.

During the afternoon the family talked with Judy Minor Irwin and her Bill and their Amy and Emily at Blythesville, Arkansas. Judy who has been quite ill is much improved and preparing for a Christmas visit with the family and a late spring departure for a tour of duty in Iran. Cliff Warner is expected home soon, too. He is presently at Fairchild A.F.B. securing housing for his family and after a 30 day leave they will reside in the state of Washington. Our hometown boys and girls are indeed flying far from the nest, any more. Pioneers in their own sense of the word.

Mrs. Herschel (Mae) Litter entertained her Canasta club Tuesday night with prize winners being, Mrs. Eldon (Lois) Long, high; Mae, traveling; Mrs. Max (Colleen) Justice, low; Miss Jackie Justice, door. The other four members who contributed to the scores of the winners were, Mrs. Charles (Esther) Picklesimer, Mrs. Harvey (Margene) Looney, Mrs. Purr (Pearl) Cochenour and Mrs. William (yours truly) Easterday. Secret sisters were revealed for the 1970 year and new ones for 1971 drawn. Believe it or not, but that bunch of cackling hens do an outstanding job of keeping her sister quite secret. It can be done! Anyone needing delicious chicken salad recipe should call Mae for hers — it's the best ever.

Christmas is definitely in the air and that special magical feeling can be truly felt with a slow drive around the town and all the lovely decorations to be viewed. I hope lots of entries are sent into the contest from here but man would I hate to be the judge. Jim and Norma Cochenour have another winner this year; Dallas and Clarabelle Valentine have gorgeous with a capital G decorations; Geneva and Linda Eisenauge always have a beautiful display and this year they really outdid themselves — the Manger scene is breathtaking; Kate Sollars and daughter Georgia London (down from the weekend from her Cols. pad) have the whole works — Santa, reindeer, sleigh and up on the rooftop, too.

Out in the Wright addition along with the Valentines and Eisenauges, adding to the fairylend fantasy with beautiful lighting are the Jerry (Raymond) Schleichs, Mike and Carol Tarbill, Jack and Juanita Hanson, Jr. and Loretta Keller, Harvey and Margene Looney, Jim and Verna Mowery, Bill and Georgeann Puffinbarger. Up the street from them you can see the always lovely decorations of Mrs. Viola Myers and next door her son David and Sheila Myers. Across the street the Carl Gearhearts have very effectively intertwined greenery and lighting.

I particularly liked the doorway done by Bea and Norma Anderson, the star and candles at Paul and Elizabeth Chester's, the design at Shorty and Mearl Christopher's and the blue lighted windows of Mrs. Myrtle Lingo. Mary and Dodie Picklesimer have carried out the religious theme with the Cross among their lights. Curt and Millie Keller have outside trees that lend themselves ideally to this season and its pretty lights but we miss their usual Santa and reindeer display and same goes for Jay and Evelyn Kaiser who changed the decor this year to an outline of red lights for the most part.

Partial, also to red lights outlining the porch area are Marvin and Dolly Thompson and the Ed Bjek's down at Woodlyn. Jim and Rosie Picklesimer's lighting adds a glow all its own to the town and Preacher Ed Linville ever braved the elements and has the parsonage all prettily aglow, too. Earl and Maxine Lanman not only decorated the front door but the back one which is rather novel, I think. Jeff Carpenter also used intertwined greenery and lights at the main entranceway. Very, very pretty are the homes of Harry and Cora Young, Glenn and Leona Shaeffer, the Thurmar See's, the Winfred Rigby's and the Leroy Adams'. Using candles to spread the warm work of cheer and good wishes are Jim and Jeanine Hamman, Larry and Cinda Justice, Ruby Clark and the Virgil Paxtons.

Pat Henson up at Pat's Beauty Shop (plug, plug) has gaily decorated the shop with all sorts of pretties and the town itself has the red and green traditional lighting throughout the main business section. As time goes on more and more of our folks will get their decorations up and we will keep you posted.

Do yourself a favor, a real treat, and slowly drive around the town and down through Woodlyn (Petee Cochenour has his lights up, too and so do the Bob Hastings) and enjoy the efforts expended by our people to make this a season and time of beauty and meaning.

By the way, should any of you readers be in our Westfall High School do stroll down by the Home Ec. department and see the lovely decorated windows (display) in keeping with the holiday air. The girls have done a fine job and my only regret is that this department is rather off the beaten path and few of us have the opportunity to see the girls hardiwork. They nearly always have the display windows exhibiting examples of their ingenuity. When you attend the basketball games try to take the time to see the windows and then let Mrs. Vance, Mrs. Patterson or the girls know how they have added a pleasing note.

Ahh! what joys to be 14 and on the threshold of so many exciting life treats and this is where Cindy Hamman, charming young daughter of Jim and Jeanine, finds herself since she celebrated a birthday with a real swingin' bash Saturday night at her home. Guests grooving the party were: Connie Drummond, Jane Henson, Karen Baker, Vicki Christopher, Bumy Stevens, Elyse Rhinesmith, Jamie Schein, Cindy Schleich, Gail Underwood, Doug Betts, Bill Hamman, Brian Eitel, Mark Lutz, John Alan Graffis, Terry Hanson, Cathy Burchett, Jeff Frazier, Theresa Conley, Tony Mosley, Alan Underwood, Doug Garrison, Karen Marshall, Brent Coleman, Randy and Paul Bivens, Janet Hastings, Tom Schooley, Gail Maynard, Billy Dennis, J. F. Picklesimer, Cathy Welsh, Stephanie Francis, Joanne Blankenship, Ross Anderson, and Teddy Hamric.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy (Scarlett) Carter, Yvette and Veronica visited with good friends, Jim and Belle Sowers family of Circleville, Monday night. Scarlett expects to attend the Christmas party of her Thursday Social Club at the Fox Farm on Thursday (natch).

Harry and Emma Puffinbarger returned to this area for a few days from their Haines City, Fla. winter home having been called here due to the death of her brother, Mr. Luther List. The Marion Steinhauers (Emma's son) accompanied them here. They left early this a.m. for Florida.

This community was quite saddened and shaken by the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Kervin Morrison. Sincere sympathy is extended to the grieving family.

The many old-timer friends of Charles Puffinbarger will be interested in hearing that he recently underwent eye surgery at Grant Hospital and is now at home at 629 S. Scioto St. where he may have and would welcome visitors. Mr. Puffinbarger had undergone an eye transplant last July and complications had developed which made it necessary for further surgery.

His vision is quite limited and a visit or a phone call would be of a tremendous morale boost. He can be reached by calling his landlady, Mrs. Clydus Leist at 474-3074. Cards would serve to cheer him, too, and Mrs. Leist or Mrs. Lucille Carsner would happily read them to him.

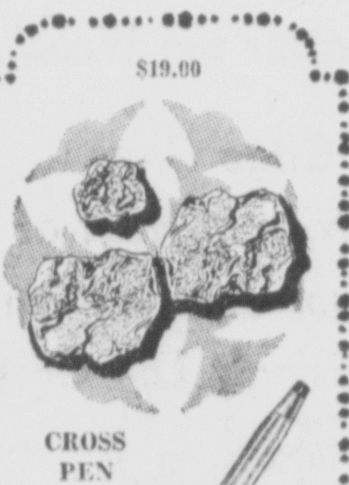

Have you forgotten to send your contribution to the Santa Helpers Fund? The amount received to date has not been up to expectations and I do wish to impress upon all of you how very, very important that we all share with our less fortunate children. Unless the Fund grows considerably, many children will not have a Christmas gift and none of us want that to happen.

These are children under the care and protective services of the Children's Services Board and as such not one penny or tax money can be spent for any thing but the essentials of life and Christmas presents are not considered exactly essential although that could be a subject for debate. This fund is in no way connected with the PICCA toy restoration program which has much merit and publicity. Surely some of you readers belong to club and organizations that are interested in contributing to the well being and happiness of our neglected, deprived, dependent, orphaned, abused children so why not approach the subject at the very next meeting and have a contribution sent quickly as possible.

Few shopping days remain! Why not each reader send a contribution? The mount does not matter — all donations thankfully accepted. Just send to Santa Helpers Fund, Box 9, Circleville, Ohio, 43113. You will not be eligible for any fancy prizes but your heart will surely feel the warmth that comes from helping someone less fortunate and your Christmas can't help but be a bit merrier and brighter. Remember — Happiness is sending a contribution to Santa Helpers Fund. NOW! PLEASE?

WOODSTOCK, Ill. (AP) — Mark Smith, 20, of McHenry, Ill., questioned concerning the murder of Miss Janice Bolyard, 22, formerly of Fremont, Ohio, has been sentenced to 199-400 years in prison after pleading guilty to murdering two other women.

Smith was sentenced Wednesday for the slayings of Jean Bianchi, 27, and Jeanann Lin-genfelder, 17, both of McHenry, who were killed earlier this year.

Police said he also admitted the murder of Mrs. Ovie Fay Ash, 26, in Mountain Home, Ark., last December.

Smith was questioned in connection with the Feb. 27 slaying of Miss Bolyard, a laboratory technician found strangled in the basement of the factory where both she and Smith worked at Des Plaines, Ill.

Authorities said they lacked evidence connecting him with that slaying.

Miss Bolyard's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bolyard of Fremont.

Brown Urges Enforcement Chief Cook Be Kept On Job

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown said Thursday that Albert D. Cook, head of the Division of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, should be retained by the new administration.

Brown said Cook, who has directed the division since its creation by the Attorney General in March 1969, is "irreplaceable." He added, "Cook is an ideal law enforcement agent and has had 30 years of experience as an FBI narcotics agent."

He called Cook "most humane but not soft."

Brown said he made the recommendation of retaining Cook to Atty. Gen. Elect William J. Brown. There was no indication of the new attorney general's intentions, he said.

Brown said if Cook is not retained, the new attorney general should select a replacement with "professionalism, not enthusiasm."

The two main jobs of the drug division, he said, are to conduct seminars for local law enforcement officials and to use undercover agents to spot drug pushers on Ohio's university campuses.

He proposed that the number of agents be increased from eight to 24 to "keep the availability of drugs to a minimum."

He said two agents should "function full-time on each state campus."

The job of the agents, Brown said, is to make buys from pushers and relay the information to local authorities. He added that the agents never make arrests.

Some agents have been able to buy drugs 20 minutes after arriving on campus, he said. In one instance, he said, an agent made four different purchases in two hours.

Brown explained that agents make at least three buys from each pusher to make the case certain and to make sure they have the criminal and not the victim of drugs.

So far, he said, cases involving undercover agents have resulted in no false arrests. "It is almost worse to make a bad arrest, than to make none at all," he said.

Floating Hotel

NEW YORK (AP) — Visitors to Japan's seaside resort of Mito in Shizuoka Prefecture can now stay on what used to be the world's largest private yacht. The 5,105-ton luxury cruiser, the Stella Polaris, has been rechristened the Scandavia and converted into Japan's first floating hotel.

SPEAKING OF MASSACRES, a high-ranking military source reports that in 1968, Gen. William Westmoreland (left), now Army Chief of Staff and then top commander in South Vietnam, ordered a Mekong Delta village destroyed because the villagers were suspected of being or helping the Viet Cong, but he was talked out of it by a field commander, Maj. Gen. Julian Ewell (right). It happened after the intensive Tet offensive.

A Christmas Story

The Miracle at Derrick, Texas

by Luise Putcamp, Jr.

Synopsis: Mrs. Motherwell is fretting about the new orphan Christopher. He hasn't smiled or spoken since the night he came. But Miss Princh is more concerned with the news that the Orphanage money is gone. Then Mrs. Motherwell asks if ten thousand dollars would help.

CHAPTER V A SOLUTION?

Miss Princh sniffed, "You're not thinking about that ten thousand dollars Gus Derek is giving at the carol festival this year?"

"Yes — yes!" said Mrs. Motherwell in rising excitement. "Addie, you know our children have been singing in the carol festival every Christmas for fifteen years," said Miss Princh, "and we've never won the prize yet!"

"But Julia, you ought to hear the children this year. You just ought to hear them!"

"You don't mean they're good," said Miss Princh.

"Good? They sing like little angels. In this whole town, there just couldn't be better!"

"Well, I've never seen an angel in patched overalls or a dress that's been let down for the third time. But if you say —"

"I do say. I declare, Julia, you've been so worried about that old letter, you haven't even heard them practice yet. And it's almost time now."

The two women hurried down the drafty hall to the big room where the children were getting ready for Christmas. "Ten thousand dollars..." Miss Princh was saying to herself.

"Well, dears," said Mrs. Motherwell, bustling through the door. "Let's show Miss Princh what good singers we are!"

The orphans put aside their paper chains and tin stars, and the presents they were making for each other. They lined up neatly in the middle of the room. The tallest — Tom and Joe and Ann — stood in the back and the smallest — Dotty and little Peggy — in front.

Mrs. Motherwell sounded a

His voice sounded like the croaking of a little frog.

thin note on the pitchpipe and raised her hand.

"O come, all ye faithful," the orphans sang, their faces lifted up like the faces of little birds waiting to be fed. "Joyful and triumphant—"

In a minute Miss Princh was turning her head to nod at Mrs. Motherwell. Her eyes were bright. What if they did make "O come, let us adore Him" sound kind of like a football ye? They were by far the best choir the Orphanage ever had!

But Mrs. Motherwell didn't see Miss Princh's nod because she was looking at Christopher.

Ohio Soldier Killed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marine Lance Cpl. Craig N. Ward, son of Harvey W. Ward of 32 E. Helena St., Dayton, Ohio, has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Wednesday.

Anacondas, the longest snakes in the world, sometimes grow to 38 feet and weigh up to 500 pounds, the National Geographic Society says.

From his corner, he had come close, to watch the children hungrily. His thin hands were clutched tight to his chest, and wonder of wonders, Christopher was almost smiling.

"Wait — children," said Mrs. Motherwell.

They broke off in the middle of the second verse and turned to look at Christopher too.

"Christopher — would you like to sing with the other children?" asked Mrs. Motherwell.

For a minute Christopher looked as if he would run away. Then he nodded his head, hard.

"Well, then," said Mrs. Motherwell happily, "you stand right here beside Peggy."

Once again the pitchpipe sounded, and Mrs. Motherwell's hand began waving. "O come, all ye faithful," sang the orphans again. But what a difference there was — what a terrible difference!

It was Christopher. His voice sounded like the croaking of a little frog, and he couldn't carry the tune, not to save his life.

NEXT: Good Deed.

Commando Raid Team Decorated

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has disclosed that a recent commando raid into North Vietnam in an attempt to rescue American prisoners was larger in scope than originally indicated.

Laird was here Wednesday to pin medals on 96 Army and Air Force commandos who took part in the raid.

The Army said the 96, plus four others decorated earlier at the White House, made up the raiding party of 100 men. It was originally thought that only 70 men took part.

The citations for bravery also indicated the men came under heavier enemy fire during the raid at the Son Tay camp than was first reported by the Pentagon.

The man who led the assault, Col. Arthur Simons, said his men inflicted heavy casualties on North Vietnamese guards.

He also disclosed that about a dozen enemy soldiers were inside the compound and that a much larger force closed in on the commandos from outside the walls.

Laird conferred four Distinguished Service Crosses, four Distinguished Flying Crosses, four Air Force Crosses, and 84 Silver Stars on the men.

He also told the commandos and about 200 spectators that he, President Nixon and other planners knew there was "a chance of disappointment even of failure" in the raid.

But he said they were "well worth the risk" and that he would support future missions if necessary.

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS (AP) — In the last 21 years the 15 members of NATO have spent nearly 1 1/2 trillion dollars on defense. More than a trillion of that came from U.S. taxpayers.

A trillion is a thousand billions or a million millions. You get some idea of the amount if you add up the total value of all goods and services produced in the United States this year; it will just approach a trillion dollars.

Officials of NATO, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, put at $1,469,396,000,000 the total defense outlays of these nations since 1949. Annual expenditures grew from $18.7 billion in 1949 to $106.4 billion last year.

The total for this year is expected to drop to $102.8 billion, because of a cut in U.S. defense spending. It is likely to start mounting again in 1971 because the Nixon administration plans to ask for more.

These are the 15 NATO members' defense expenditures both inside and outside the NATO area.

At NATO's annual meeting last week 10 European allies agreed to make a modest start on sharing more of the burden. They will increase their spending by $1 billion over the next five years.

U.S. officials and congressmen have long complained about inequality. Of the total NATO outlay in 21 years the United States has spent almost three quarters: $1,096,226,000,000. Much of this money, of course, has been spent in Asia, not in the Atlantic area.

The European share in the spending remains roughly what it was 21 years ago. Of the $18.7 billion spent in 1949, the U.S. share was $13.5 billion, or 72 per cent. At that time Western Europe was still almost prostrate economically as a result of World War II. Aid under the Marshall Plan was just beginning to flow in.

In 1970 the United States was spending $76.5 billion of the total $102.8 billion. Its share had risen to almost 74 per cent.

In the interval the European members had given up nearly all of their military spending outside Europe. They also became much more prosperous.

One of the most important nations spent have actually been used by NATO as an organization. The bulk paid out by the national governments for national purposes, only loosely coordinated by the alliance.

One of the most important national purposes has been to support national industry, and there has been little saving through large-scale international purchases. NATO forces, for example, still use different rifles and different rifle ammunition.

In the statement that ended last week's meeting, the 15 governments said they would have to give more support to the joint production and development of equipment.

NATO refuses to disclose its own budget. It says only that over the life of the alliance about $4.2 billion has been spent on infrastructure—the building of airfields, communications networks, pipelines and other jointly used equipment.

Some additional spending was approved last week. All of it, like previous NATO spending, will come out of national budgets—NATO has no financial resources of its own.

Concern for Others

LOVE RULES A CHRISTIAN'S ATTITUDE TOWARD OTHERS

Scripture—I John 3:11-24.

By R. H. RAMSEY
JOHN has been called "the apostle of love" for two reasons. First, in his role as a student or disciple he was designated as the one that Jesus loved; and second, in comparison to the other apostles, John devoted a disproportionate share of his writings to the theme of love. Today's lesson, from John's first epistle, is a treatise on Christian love for fellowmen which transcends racial, national and social barriers and extending even to one's enemies and persecutors. To paraphrase the peace groups' slogan, hatred is harmful to children and other living things, poisoning the entire human existence. No amount of culture can cure it; civilization cannot outgrow it; knowledge cannot eliminate it; wealth cannot buy it off; legislation cannot regulate it. Yet hatred can be conquered through love. Love is both the antithesis and antidote for hatred. The entire world could be transformed if every

Instead of murdering our brothers, whether literally or figuratively, we must love them and demonstrate that love in a practical way, as God has demonstrated His love through the sacrifice of His Son.

As we have shared in the blessings of God, we must share our blessings with others. This is the very essence of the Christian life, for the only effective way of demonstrating our love for God is by loving others. Such love manifests itself in concern for others' emotional, mental, spiritual, financial and material needs, for all are part of the whole man.

Such concern for others is more than being our brother's keeper, for altogether too often being a "brother's keeper" means keeping a brother "in his place." Rather we should be our brother's brother, loving not only in words, but also in deeds, for it is a well-known truism that actions speak far louder than words.

GOLDEN TEXT

"But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law."—Galatians 5:22-23.

person would think and practice love as a self-giving concern for others.

Love for one another is not a new message. It is involved in the whole gospel story and an Old Testament revelation. God is love. His love for us teaches us to love others, for no man can obey God's commandments and remain devoid of love for his fellowmen, for we have been directly commanded to love one another. And our love for God is reflected in our love for our fellowmen.

Cain was resentful because Abel did right in God's sight while he did not. So he murdered him. A hate-filled world is always ready to eliminate whatever goodness there is in it, for the mere presence of goodness generates shame, which leads to increasing hate. Such hatred is equated with murder, for one who hates deeply has already killed his brother in his heart. And the one who would kill his brother automatically kills himself.

Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Divisions of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission.

Loving in deed is translating our love for others into practicality and making that love visible by what we accomplish on behalf of others.

If we love others sincerely and genuinely, as we are commanded, then neither our hearts nor God will condemn us. We can approach the throne of grace with our prayers and God will answer them because we are keeping His commandments.

At the end of the chapter John returns to his main theme of love for one another, expressing it as a commandment and relating it to our faith in Christ. Our relationship to Him is expressed in our faith; our relationship to others is expressed in love. This is the divine requirement.

There is a deep inner bond between God and those who keep the divine requirements of faith and love. And proof of this indwelling of the Spirit is demonstrated in our love and concern for others.

A survey of religious affiliations of the new U.S. Congress shows that 74.3 per cent of them are Protestants, 18.3 per cent Roman Catholics, 2.3 per cent Jewish and fractional percentages of other faiths or none.

The figures showed a slight gain for Roman Catholics, adding five more members to make a total of 115, but their share of seats still is a bit short of their proportion of the population in the country—about 25 per cent. In the regular check made for

Gilligan Pushes For Involvement In Education

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov.-elect John J. Gilligan told the Ohio Education Association Thursday that involvement, not money, will finally decide the future of the state's educational system.

Gilligan told 1,200 convention delegates he viewed his election Nov. 3 as a signal from voters that they were willing to support quality education, but only if fair, honest methods were devised to pay for it.

An inequitable and archaic property tax is not the answer, Gilligan said. He said results of special elections held this week indicated resistance to continued use of the property tax as the primary source of education revenues.

Of the 72 special education issues on the ballot, only 17, or 24 per cent, passed—the lowest percentage in history.

"The people of Ohio want good schools just as they want the best in all the services state government should provide," Gilligan said.

the last 12 years by the evangelical forthrightly, Christianity Today, it noted that for the first time, "three congressmen this year said flatly they have no religious affiliation."

Also hinting an incipient tendency toward ambiguity about the matter was the increase from 12 to 16 in the number giving no specific church affiliation, listing themselves only as "Protestant." Altogether, the new Congress convening in January has 535 members, 435 in the House and 100 in the Senate. Of the total, the slightly increased Roman Catholic contingent is the largest among the denominations.

Methodists, in the second place, hold 86 seats, down four from the previous Congress, but they have the largest denominational group in the Senate, with 20 seats in that chamber.

Methodists also have the biggest number of state governorships, 10 of them. Eight governors are Roman Catholics, eight Presbyterians, five Episcopalians, four Baptists, three United Church of Christ members, three Jewish and the rest of other Protestant faiths.

In Congress, most Protestant denominations kept about the same representation this time, although some slipped a little, others inching up. The relatively small Jewish contingent of 14 was five less than in the previous congress, but still remained close to the Jewish proportion of the population.

Presbyterians, the third largest contingent, gained an extra seat to a total of 83. Episcopalians, the fourth largest block lost one place to a total of 66, but in doing so, gained three places in the Senate losing four in the House.

Baptists, fifth in line, edged down from a total of 53 to 51. The United Church of Christ slipped from 29 to 27. The Lutherans stayed the same, with 14, as did the Christian Church (Disciples) with 14.

Greek Orthodox members rose by one to four. Also gaining one each were the Quakers, with four; the Unitarian-Universalists, with eight and Churches of Christ, with seven.

"I FEEL LOUSY" over failing to kill Pope Paul is what Benjamin Mendoza, 35, Bolivian artist shown under arrest in Manila, is saying. He wants another chance, he says.

The Adult Reading World

By now, most people have planned their Christmas decorations and are well-launched on their craft projects. But the holiday is not made up of trimmings and foods alone. What about the real meaning of Christmas? It's time to plan for the true celebration of this holiday season.

There are many books of Christmas legends in the library. "Welcome, Christmas" by Eleanor Graham, "Christmas in Legend and Story" compiled by Elvira Smith and Alice Hazeltine, "Christmas Literature through the Centuries" by Walter Schmauch, "The Fireside Book of Christmas Stories" by Edward Wagonknecht, are but a few of the background books available.

To vary your traditions this year, you might consult: "Christmas at Monticello" by Helen Topping Miller, or "Prairie Christmas" by Paul Engle, or "Christmas with Ed Sullivan," written and compiled by the showman himself.

Then there are the books with foreign flavor: "Christmas Customs Around the World" by Herbert Wernecke, "The Family Christmas Book, Christmas Traditions Around the World" by Barbara Rinkoff, "Christmas and Its Customs" by Christina Hole, and "The World's Greatest Christmas Stories" by Erec Posselt.

For reading aloud, there are "Christmas is Together Time" by the ever-popular Charles Schulz, "Christmas as Songs and Their Stories" by Herbert Wernecke, "On Christmas Day in the Morning" by John Langstaff and "Christmas Treasures" edited by Hallmark.

Christmas books have been placed on seven-day loan in order that they may receive as wide a circulation as possible.

New books which are suggested gift selections are on exhibit in the reference room. Many of these are especially beautiful in their color photography. Travel, archaeology, biography, crafts and history are among these outstanding volumes. They are displayed solely for persons who may wish to examine books locally, in order to shorten their shopping trips. These books are not for sale, but must be purchased from a regular bookseller. Later, they will be placed in circulation throughout the library's regular collection.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Views On 'Rarin' To Go Walter'

DEAR ABBY: I still adore you, but how could you? I refer to that bum advice you gave Walter's wife. What gives with my free-wheeling, clear thinking Abby? You want Walter should go looking elsewhere? Making a wreck of her, is he? It would seem that the little woman has lost her spark and Walter is still rarin' to go.

What's wrong with letting him jump into the bathtub anyway? Come on, Abby, you're making it tough for guys with get up and go.

DEAR ABBY: You gave Walter's wife some bad dope. She's 44 and he is 45 and she complained or was she bragging? That his ardor was so untamed that he wanted to jump into the bathtub with her.

I can hear the sighs of neglected women the world over. And you, Dear Abby, advised her to tell him to take a cold shower! For shame.

I submit that she should join him in a nice warm shower. It's fun. It enhances togetherness, and it conserves water.

ROMANTIC ROBBIE FROM LONG BEACH

DEAR ABBY: If Walter's wife follows your advice ("lock the bathroom door and tell him to take a cold shower") Walter will be taking hot ones with someone else. Resurging sexuality in middle life is a boon and a blessing. Would she prefer to "live and to cherish" in sickness rather than in health? Love him or lose him. Enjoy! Enjoy!

MR. H. A. P
DEAR ABBY: I am furious. Is a man's sex life supposed to automatically dry up on his 40th birthday? Walter's wife protested that she's 44, looks her age, and isn't all that irresistible, but Walter, who is 45, would attack her in the bathtub if she'd permit it. Obviously Walter still finds her attractive, and isn't that what counts?

My husband and I are both 24. He's fighting in Vietnam right now. I only wish he were here to "attack" me in the bathtub. And I hope that when I am 44, he'll love me enough to ignore a middle-age spread and wrinkles; and that when he is 45 I'll love him enough to ignore a middle-age spread head.

KAREN
DEAR ABBY: I sure hope Walter's wife takes your advice and locks Walter out and tells him to go take a cold shower. I've had my eye on that man for a long time.

DIGS WALTER
DEAR ABBY: This is for Walter's Wife: The trouble with so many wives today is that there are too many wives telling their husbands to go take cold showers.

DRIPPING WET
DEAR ABBY: I have a message for Walter's Wife: Whenever there is a shortage of anything, there is always a black market.

PHILANDERER
DEAR ABBY: I was very much surprised at the advice you gave Walter's wife. She should be proud that after 24 years of marriage he still felt that way about her. Most women her age face the problem of wandering husbands and have room to cry. Walter's wife should be thankful for every bit of attention she gets. How about "showers of attention" instead of "cold showers?" Three cheers for Walter!

Cambodian Aid Not To Come Until 1971?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicts President Nixon will be given the aid he seeks for Cambodia—but not until the new Congress convenes next year.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont made the prediction of a two-month delay as the committee opened hearings following House approval of the bill authorizing Nixon's aid request.

"It is easy for one or two people to block legislation at this stage of the year," Aiken said in an interview, referring to the push for adjournment of the lame-duck session of Congress.

The House, by a 249-102 vote, approved Nixon's supplemental $535-million foreign aid request Wednesday night, and added an extra $15 million for disaster aid to East Pakistan.

But the House turned back attempts to restrict use of the $155 million in new aid for Cambodia.

The House took up today a supplemental appropriations bill containing the $500 million authorized earlier in arms aid to Israel plus the additional foreign assistance.

Quick approval is expected in the House, sending it to the senate whose appropriations committee plans to take it up on Friday. The senate has yet to pass an authorization for the additional aid.

The appropriations bill faces two major pitfalls in the Senate—time, as Congress heads towards hoped-for adjournment late next week, and the plan of some war critics to tie the bill to the Cooper-Church amendment restricting U.S. actions in Cambodia.

FRB Chief Pushes Nixon To Harder Economic Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur F. Burns' new anti-inflation program appears a power play to shove the Nixon administration into a more activist role in holding down wage and price increases.

While many officials doubt the administration will go as far as the Federal Reserve Board chairman suggests, they feel Burns' proposals will have some impact on Nixon's economic strategy.

Spokesman for the Fed and Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers deny any move by Burns to change administration policy, but his speech in Los Angeles Monday night was the frankest appraisal to date on its possible failures.

And sources cited evidence that Nixon already has taken up some of the Burns' line. They noted the President's steps last Friday to roll back oil price increases and his threat to intervene in construction industry bargaining procedures.

Among other things, Burns suggested compulsory arbitration of big labor contracts, a wage-price review board and a change in minimum wage laws for teenagers as steps that might be needed to check inflation.

Nixon may be persuaded to follow Burns' advice because he badly needs the fiercely independent Fed to carry out his political goals of stimulating the economy and moving the nation toward full employment.

The Fed, with its controls over the flow of money and credit, would have a vital role to play in both instances.

In his talk, Burns flatly rejected the administration's heavy reliance on fiscal and monetary policies alone to keep wages and prices from going up.

"What I see clearly is the need for our nation to recognize that we are dealing, practically speaking, with a new problem—namely persistent inflation in the face of substantial unemployment—and that the classical remedies may not work well enough or fast enough in this case," he said.

Burns called for the administration to employ more active use of an incomes policy, broadly defined direct White House pressure on wage and price increases.

Sources said what came across is the Fed may be unwilling to expand the money supply as fast as Nixon wants unless the President demonstrates a more hard-nosed attitude on pending wage and price boosts.

Self Defense

Taught To Kids

CARBONDALE, Ill. (PA) — Mike Wadiak, fourth degree black belt holder in the Isshinryu System of Karate is teaching kids the Karate art of self defense.

Among his students are Joy Reames, 7; Chuck Popp, 11; Wallace Lockhart, 15, and Lance Avery, 16. The youngsters are known as white belts, the beginning rank in the Karate art.

Wadiak, a graduate student at Southern Illinois University, received his first degree black belt at age 16.

Atlanta, Detroit, Cleveland Hit By Pollution Orders

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — William D. Ruckelshaus, in his first major action since taking over the week-old Environmental Protection Agency, has served notice on three major U.S. cities to halt violation of water quality standards or face possible court action.

If the violations do not cease within 180 days, the agency can ask the Justice Department to file suits against the cities.

Named by Ruckelshaus were Atlanta, Detroit and Cleveland. Ruckelshaus said in a speech prepared for the 47th annual congress of the National League of Cities that Atlanta is fouling the Chattahoochee River in violation of the federally approved Georgia water quality standards.

He said the river is clean when it reaches Atlanta and when it leaves "it is virtually an open sewer."

Detroit and Cleveland, he said, violate standards with respect to Lake Erie.

"No one disputes the damage that has been done to Lake Erie," Ruckelshaus said. "Some contend that the lake is dead."

But massive corrective action and hard, prompt enforcement proceedings can save the lake. This is just what we intend to do."

The notices served on the cities today are intended to break the logjam, Ruckelshaus said. It is the hope of the agency "to act as a catalyst—to encourage all of us in Washington, in the state houses, and in the city halls of this country to address ourselves to the hard decisions which must be made if the environment is to be protected."

Many of the city officials wanted to discuss with Ruckelshaus the environmental effects of the supersonic transport. The conference is sharply divided on the issue and a floor fight is expected on a resolution urging a halt to federal funding of SST development.

The resolutions committee split 26 to 25 in a show-of-hands vote passing the resolution.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The public broadcasting network must get credit for televising the most daring program of the year: The apparently uncensored film adaptation of Peter Weiss' Broadway play commonly identified as "Marat Sade."

The two-hour film was aired during prime time Thursday night. It was a grisly melodrama which in its complicated unusual form contained the author's view of the world today and its people.

The full name of the play is "The Persecution of Jean-Paul Marat, as Performed by the Lunatics of the Asylum of Charenton, under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade." The scene was set in the barred bathhouse of the madhouse outside of Paris in 1808. A group of inmates in a sort of primitive group therapy, were enacting De Sade's drama about the killing of Marat, a revolutionary leader in the French upheaval 15 years before by Charlotte Corday. The French public was invited to witness the performance.

The 1967 film was essentially a dialogue between De Sade, with his belief in man's individual express, no matter what his need or whim, and Marat's conviction about the need for revolution even when it destroyed the revolutionaries.

There were patients in straight jackets, Marat's scab-covered body, an adult nude scene, writhing madmen and women and a brutally violent climax.

For the viewer the inescapable point was whether the inmates of bedlam or the people outside were the real madmen, the real unfeeling brutes. It was a memorable and disturbing film. It was also one that no commercial station or network could possibly have risked broadcasting in prime time.

Earlier in the evening there was a presidential news conference covered live by all networks. It seemed to be an especially lively session with the president fielding tough questions.

Radio performed with special efficiency during the one-day national rail strike. Stranded commuters and other travelers found on their local stations information about alternate transportation while traffic reports kept automobile drivers informed about clogged roads. Television with less flexibility covered the emergency as a news story during its regular news programs.

Wilmington Mayor Raps Photograph

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Mayor Dale R. Minton is up against the wall and doesn't like it. But at least he came out with his clothes on.

Last week Minton turned up pictured against a downtown wall in the Wilmingtonian the Wilmington College yearbook.

A few pages away there are pictures of a naked codd running through a field members of a fraternity lined up with fig leaves and a man without clothes sitting on a commode.

What bothers Minton about the use of his picture is that it appears in a section devoted to a call for revolution.

What about the naked people? "Well I did tell them at the college I thought it demonstrated a grossness and an insensitivity that I didn't think was representative or should be of an institution of higher learning," Minton said.

But he admitted the political message bothered him more than the nakedness. Beneath his photo in the yearbook is this caption from the Declaration of Independence:

"That whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it."

OFA Backs Major Tax Reform

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Delegates to the Ohio Education Association convention approved overwhelmingly Thursday night a resolution calling for major tax reform to improve support of public schools.

The resolution proposes creation of a graduated state tax on individual income and corporate profits coupled with property tax relief.

The tax plan and other proposals approved by the 1,200 delegates during the three-day convention will make up the legislative package the OFA will present to the 109th Ohio General Assembly next year.

Under the OFA's tax revision plan, funds collected from a state income tax would be placed in education funds in the counties from which they were collected and distributed on an equitable basis to school districts in the counties.

Delegates approved several other legislative proposals but postponed until today action on those calling for a professional negotiations law and a state minimum salary schedule for teachers.

Legislative proposals approved would: —Require that all school districts provide kindergarten to all children.

—Insure adequate support for guidance services in all elementary and high school grades.

—Provide an adequate level for programs for the deaf, blind, emotionally disturbed, crippled, educatable mentally retarded, speech and hearing, child study, library and adult education.

—Create a cost-of-living provision in the law that would increase the state minimum salary schedule for teachers every two years.

The highlight of today's convention activities was election of new officers.

Thursday, Gov.-elect John J. Gilligan told the delegates most members of the legislature are convinced the time has come for a "radical change" in the state tax structure.

"They are abandoning the band-aid approach to financing," Gilligan said.

QHI NHON, Vietnam (AP) — The U.S. Army charged Pfc. Matias Yzaguirre Jr., 22, of Brownsville, Tex., today with negligent homicide for the killing of a Vietnamese boy whose death set off two days of anti-American rioting in Qui Nhon earlier this week.

The Army said Yzaguirre was confined to its stockade in Da Nang while an investigation continued to determine whether he would be court-martialed.

After the shooting Monday, American officials said the 13-year-old boy had been killed accidentally by a soldier who fired a warning shot to scare off some other boys who were trying to steal C-rations from an Army truck. But two Vietnamese who said they witnessed the shooting told newsmen today two GIs drove by in a truck, one of them shot the boy deliberately as the youth sat on the fence around his school, and there had been no attempt at theft.

Money alone can't guarantee anything," Gilligan declared. What are required, he said, are "massive amounts of interest and involvement."

Class Of '50 Holds First Reunion

By DEBBIE COATES

CHS graduating class of '50 held its first reunion at the L & K Restaurant on Nov. 28.

They also decided to hold a reunion every five years.

Guest speakers for the evening were Steve Brudzinski and Tom Bennett. Eugene Dowler was master of ceremonies.

Centerpieces were given to the person coming from the farthest away, New York, and to the person with the most children, which was eight.

Out-of-town guests were from Michigan, Pennsylvania, and New York.

Harden Gives Canal Program

By CHRIS LONG

Ned Harden, a resident of Park Place, Circleville, was a guest speaker for Mrs. Eberly's English III classes Dec. 2 and 4. The topic on which he spoke was "Canal Days," dealing mostly on the period of time when Circleville used the Erie Canal for trade and travel.

During the years 1835-1896, the Erie Canal ran through Circleville. The old Marshaing yard was located behind where Goodchild's is located today. This area was where the canal boats docked for short periods before moving on down the canal.

Many of the elderly people should remember the old aqueduct which used to span the Scioto River in order to carry the canal over the river. This aqueduct was built in 1828, and the first canal boat passed through it in 1831. At the west end of the aqueduct, there was a lock used to lower the boats to the canal.

For those of you who did not know, canal boats were steered from the bow by a long tow rope.

A meeting was held at CHS Dec. 7, for Youth for Understanding. This group is for the organization of a student exchange from a foreign country.

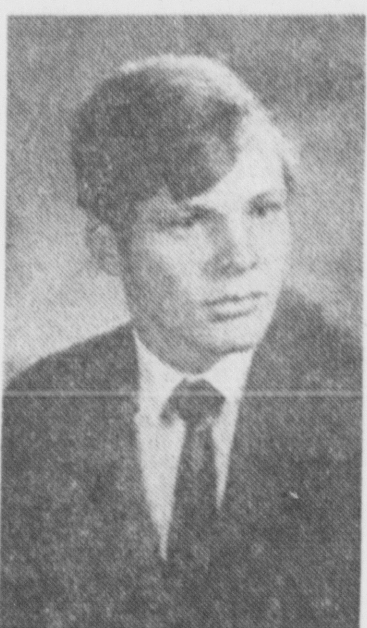

Mrs. William Dulin, the area representative, gave a speech and showed a film on a foreign exchange project. Paul Turney, a host parent from Upper Arlington, talked on his experiences with a student from Sweden. Eleven community members, and seven student council representatives from CHS were present.

The next step is to organize a community committee made up of community representatives, students, and school representatives, dealing with the problem of finding a host parent.

Meet Our Staff

By SANDY ANKROM, JODI STEELE, and BETSY BACH

Doyle Kiser, the only student at CHS having a blonde afro, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Kiser of Route 2, Circleville.

DOYLE KISER

Except for trailing his hair, Doyle devotes most of his time to sports. He was co-captain of this year's football team, and he started at safety. He also played the position of slot back. He is a member of the wrestling team and last year's SCOL championship baseball team.

Listed as some of Doyle's likes are: his German shepherd Baby; sports; motorcycles; and just messing around. His one and biggest dislike is getting a haircut.

Doyle's opinion of journalism is that it takes a lot of learning and effort to write a good article.

After graduation, Doyle plans to enter college, but has not yet decided where.

Lissa Rihl, eighteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rihl, proves to be an asset to the first period journalism class of CHS.

Lissa resides at 113 Wilson Ave. with her parents and two sisters, Cindy, 17, a junior at CHS, and Carla, 13, an eighth grader at CJHS. She also has a dog named Coco who is considered to be one of the family.

LISSA RIHL

During her years at the high school, Lissa has participated in many activities. These include: varsity cheerleader, annual staff, GAA, spirit committee, student observation committee, and a cast member of last year's Junior Class play "Angel Street." All of these are very important to Lissa. She also takes tap dancing lessons outside of school. She finds her recitals very exciting.

Lissa is a very kind and considerate person liked by all. She is patient and understanding with a sparkling personality. She intends to go to college after graduation to become an elementary teacher.

Last but not least, Lissa stated that journalism class is fun and has helped her in writing. She feels this class will be rewarding and helpful to her in future years.

Pat Davis, more commonly known at CHS as "Davis," is a lively 17-year-old senior. She resides with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Davis, at 837 Atwater Ave., and has one brother, Brooks, who is a junior at Miami University.

Pat is the treasurer of GAA, and she actively participates in bowling and volleyball intramurals.

A very entertaining conversationalist; Pat's hands and arms are constantly waving in the attempt to clarify what she says! She is also notoriously known in journalism class as a joke teller. He eyes sparkle as she continually keeps the class informed on all the new jokes that come her way.

PAT DAVIS

Pat admits that she took journalism mainly to be able to work on the Red and Black page, but she now finds the class very interesting. She is definitely considered an asset.

When asked about her future plans, Pat says, "I would like to attend a business school and become some kind of a secretary. Wish me luck!"

Competent Assistant Is Valuable To CHS Library

By MARY K. LUCAS and DORINDA BELLAMY

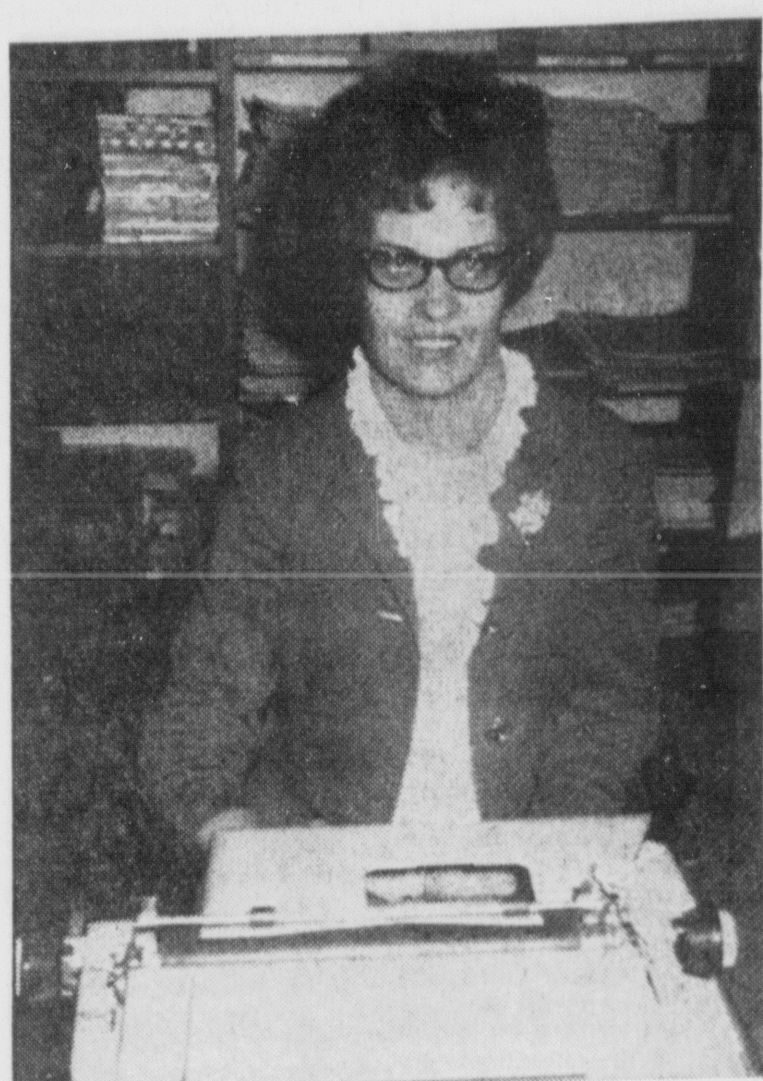

Where would a library be without a competent assistant librarian?

Continuing as assistant librarian for the second year is Virginia Smith. Mrs. Smith resides at 16 Morris Court with her two children, Steve and Sheri, and her husband, Sherville, who is employed by the Upper Arlington engineering department. Before coming to Circleville, Mrs. Smith was employed as a dispatcher for the Clinton County Sheriff department.

As assistant librarian, her duties include typing cards for the card catalogue, all paper working and correspondence, making attendance lists, as well as keeping tab on overdue books.

Her major dislike is those people who abuse their library privileges. She enjoys working with our new librarian, Mrs. Lovenshimer, and feels as though the atmosphere of the library has changed somewhat this year. Mrs. Smith describes the atmosphere as "more respected."

Her hobbies include her family and job (in that order). She also enjoys cooking, reading, people and good music.

Second Time Is One Too Many
WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — Jim Todd, 18, a service station attendant, couldn't believe his eyes when he spotted a counterfeit $20 bill for the second time.

Todd, who had received a $20 bogus bill earlier in the month, became suspicious of a customer after he purchased cigarettes and noted the car's license number.

When Todd compared the bill's serial number and found it identical with the earlier counterfeit, he notified police who apprehended the passer of the bill.

Circleville, Ohio

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Pickaway County was heavily endowed with football talent the past season and some worthy young men gained state recognition.

Not only does this bring honors to the boys themselves but awards credit to the communities that produced these fine young athletes.

Now is the time for the members of the area to do something in return.

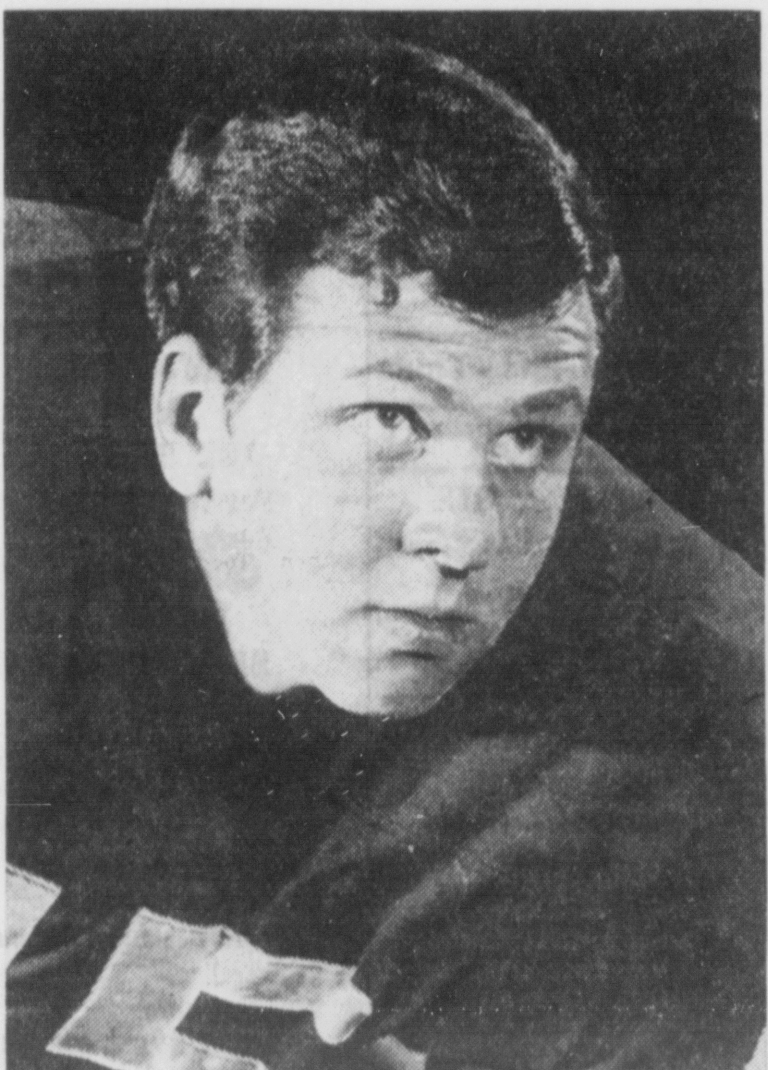

The athletic prowess of these gridders could earn them a college education but first they must be brought to the attention of the schools of higher learning.

If the alumni of the various schools would take the time to drop a letter to their old alma-mater — who knows — some of the lads could continue their days of glory on the college level.

Our little gem of information — In 1910, William Taylor came up with the idea of putting dimples in golf balls. Until this time it was almost impossible to control the flight of the ball. Taylor hit upon the idea when he blew cigar smoke at a ball and noticed the air currents.

Our "fearless" forecast — Circleville will beard the Lions of Washington C.H. and romp the Rangers of Hamilton Township . . . Westfall will launch the Astros of East Clinton but the Mustangs will have their hands full with the Pioneers of Zane Trace . . . Teays Valley will break into the win column at Franklin Heights but the rested Braves of Logan Elm will be tough to handle . . . Bengals to win six in a row against the Oilers . . . Browns over Dallas . . . Raiders to down the Chiefs . . . Giants will be Cardinal killers.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

BIG RED — Craig Lambert, a junior from Circleville, was a key factor in the winning of the national rushing title by Cornell University's Ed Marinaro during the past football season. The 6-foot, 225-pounder was an offensive tackle starter in every game through a 6-3 record. Cornell Coach Jack Musick says: "Lambert's consistently strong blocking on off-tackle and sweep plays helped Marinaro considerably." As a sophomore Lambert played a reserve role but rapidly developed into a starter this year. Lambert is the son of Mrs. Louise Lambert, 68 Bolens Ave.

Colorado And Tulane Clash In 12th Annual Liberty Bowl

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Colorado defends its Liberty Bowl title Saturday against a Tulane team whose players weren't even born the last time the Green Wave took part in post-season play as college football's top barrage begins.

The Buffaloes, quarterbacked by Jim Bratten, rambled over Alabama 47-33 in last year's classic in Memphis, Tenn. But Bratten is a questionable starter for the 12th annual Liberty Bowl since injuring a knee in practice earlier this week.

Tulane, with a 7-4 record compared to Colorado's 6-4, is making its first bowl appearance since 1940 when Texas A&M nosed out the Green Wave 14-13 in the Sugar Bowl Saturday's clash in the first even between the Greenies and the Buffs.

In Sacramento, Calif., Montana's Grizzlies are sharpening their claws for their Camellia Bowl clash with North Dakota State.

"We've been wanting a rematch ever since last year," Montana Coach Jack Swarthout said, referring to the Bisons' 30-3 romp over the Grizzlies.

The game at Hughes Stadium also pits the No. 2 and No. 3 college division teams. Montana, which trailed only Arkansas State in the rankings, swept its 10 games this season while the Bisons' only blemish on a nine-game schedule was a 14-14 tie with Eastern Michigan.

The Boardwalk, Pecan, Grantland Rice, Orange Blossom and NAIA Champion bowls round out Saturday's major action.

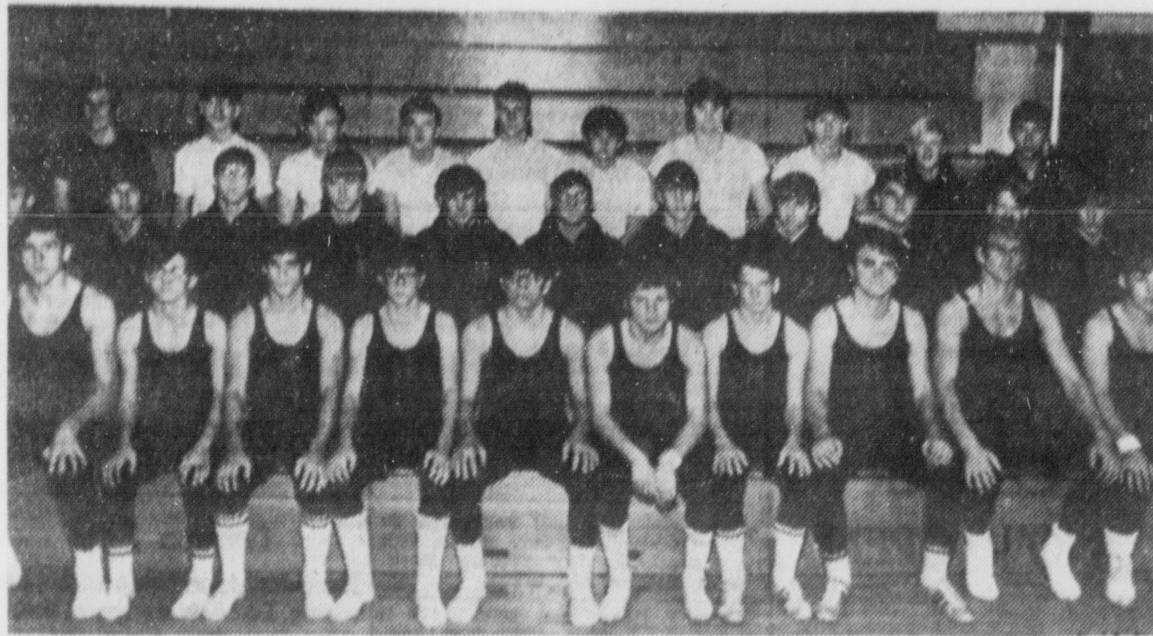

It's the third annual Boardwalk Bowl in Atlantic City, N.J., and the third visit for Delaware, 8-2. The Blue Hens, who beat Indiana, Pa., 31-24 in the 1968 inaugural and ripped North Carolina Central 31-13 last year, face a Morgan State squad with an 8-1 record.

Arkansas State, undefeated in 10 games, will also be defending its crown when it faces Central Missouri State, 9-1, in the Pecan Bowl at Arlington, Tex. The Indians, who toppled Drake 23-21 in the post-season game a year ago, ripped Central Missouri 54-6 in the teams' only other meeting 11 years ago.

Tennessee State, 10-0, faces Southwestern Louisiana, 9-2, in the Grantland Rice Bowl at Baton Rouge, La., the Orange Blossom Bowl in Miami, Fla., the only night game, pits Jacksonville, Ala., 9-0 against Florida A&M, 5-4, and Wofford, 11-0, will tackle Texas A&I, 10-1, in Greenville, S.C., for the NAIA crown.

NBA Silver Team Selections Made

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Pettit, Dolph Schayes, Paul Arizin and Joe Fulks were the first four players named to the National Basketball Association's Silver Anniversary team, Commissioner Walter Kennedy announced today.

TIGERS — Circleville High School's wrestling team is prepared for the opening of the 1970-71 season. They will get their first taste of action Saturday when they travel to Chillicothe to take part in a triangular meet. Pictured are the members of the Tiger squad.

Wrestlers Open Season

Six letterman and three South Central Ohio League champions will form the nucleus of the 1970-71 Circleville High School wrestling team as they get their first taste of action Saturday in a triangular meet at Chillicothe.

Returning champs are Mark Davey, 185-pound; Bill Fowler, 175-pound, and Doyle Kiser, 145-pound.

Mike Fuller, 119-pound; Jeff Harr, 126-pound; and Doug Good, 155-pound, are also lettermen who are returning to bolster the Tiger grapplers.

Kiser, Fuller and Good are seniors and Harr, Fowler and Davey are members of the junior class.

COACH Brent Bell is still looking for a young man to carry the Tiger banner in the 98-pound class.

Sophomores Frericks, Mogan and Webb have shown promise and could be a big addition to the group.

Additional help should come from Fuller who is a fine technician and has gained strength and Good who has jumped three weight classes and appears to be faster and stronger than last year.

The team got off to a late start due to football and banquets and need work but Coach Bell feels they are making progress and could develop into one of the stronger squads in the area.

The Tigers have a strong schedule which would provide needed experience and strength when they go into the district and state competition.

WILMINGTON who nipped the Tigers last year, once again must be considered the power and the team to beat for the SCOL laurels.

Circleville's schedule for the season is:
Dec. 12, triangular meet at Chillicothe, 1 p.m.;
Dec. 19, Tournament at Bishop

Hartley, 10 a.m.;
Jan. 7, triangular meet at Bishop Ready, 5:45 p.m.;
Jan. 16, Invitational at Groveport, 10 a.m.;
Jan. 20, triangular meet at Circleville, 5:30 p.m.;
Jan. 23, triangular meet at Miami Trace, 1 p.m.;
Jan. 30, triangular meet at Circleville, 1 p.m.;
Feb. 6, triangular meet at Hillsboro, 1 p.m.;
Feb. 13, SCOL meet at Miami Trace, 10 a.m.;
Feb. 20, triangular meet at Circleville, 1 p.m.;
Feb. 27, sectional tournament; March 6, district tournament; March 12-13 state tournament.

Thoroughbred racing belongs to its kids—the 2-year-olds—Saturday, with a $50,000-added juvenile stake on each coast.

Mrs. Russell L. Reineman's Whisk, already a veteran of top stakes competition, heads a probable field of seven for the 1 1/8-mile Heritage Stakes at Liberty Bell, while Mrs. Connie Ring's Two Worlds a winner of three stakes, is one of 15 entered for the 1 1/8-mile Bay Meadows Juvenile.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Mid-American Conference will run into more problems when Commissioner Bob James resigns to take the Atlantic Coast Conference commissioner's job. James, 49, was named Thursday to succeed Jim L. Weaver, who served 16 years until his death last summer. Novall Neve has been serving as acting commissioner of the ACC, headquartered at Greensboro, N.C.

James said he would take over his duties with the ACC no later than next March 1. He is expected to submit his resignation from the MAC post in the next few days.

"They will be mighty big shoes to fill," an observer close to the league said Thursday.

The No. 2 man for the Mid-American, Bob Peck, quit during football season to become a Denver Broncos administrator. No one has been appointed to fill that vacancy.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—With their selection for the second straight year to The Associated Press All-America football squad, defensive stars Jim Stillwagon and Jack Tatum of Ohio State stepped into elite company.

It was the first time two players from the same school have done that since Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis, Army's famous running duo, were named All-Americans in 1945-46.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The American Bowl had added seven players—three from Northwestern, and two each from Dartmouth and Grambling—for the grid classic Jan. 10 at Tampa Stadium.

Named from Northwestern were linebacker Joe Hall, offensive tackle John Hiltman and center Joe Zigulich.

Coming from Dartmouth are safety Willie Bogan and Rover back Murray Bowden.

The five will play for the North team coached by Nebraska's Bob Devaney.

The Grambling players announced are halfback Virgil Robinson and defensive tackle Samuel Holden, who joins the South squad under Shug Jordan of Auburn.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Fresh Yankee, 1970 Harness Horse of the Year, faces archrival Dayan and six other contenders Saturday afternoon when she tries to defend her championship in the $100,000 American Trotting Classic at Hollywood Park.

Jr. High Cagers Down Washington

Circleville's junior high cagers jumped off to an early lead and held it as they downed the Washington C. H. juniors, 34-23, Thursday at the Mill St. gym.

Phil Roll hooped 18 points to lead the little Tigers in the win. Perry Hoskins added 14 and Mark McFadden had two to account for the Circleville scoring.

Bill Massie and Rod Wolfe led a strong defense that kept the Washington boys in check. Everyone on the Circleville squad saw action in the contest.

Circleville is now 1-1 for the season and will be at home to Chillicothe J. A. Smith Tuesday.

Texas Legal Blocks To Ali Are Lowered

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — There are now no legal barriers, in Texas anyway, to prevent the Muhammed Ali-Joe Frazier championship boxing match from being held in the Astro-dome.

Ali was granted a license to fight Thursday by Tommy Smith, commissioner of Texas Labor statistics, who has jurisdiction over boxing licenses.

Judge Rejects Injunction Against 'Hazardous' Toys

BRYAN, Ohio (AP)—William C. Killgallon, director of The Ohio Art Co., which manufactures two toys criticized as unsafe by the Consumers Union, says the whole incident is "ridiculous."

U. S. District Court Judge George L. Hart refused in Washington Thursday to grant an injunction against sale of "Etch-A-Sketch" and "Wasp Cap Gun," which the consumer group charged were hazardous to children.

Etch-A-Sketch is a rectangular screen with two knobs with which one can draw horizontal and vertical lines in various patterns and then erase them.

Killgallon said in an interview

Thursday night that Ohio Art has sold over 20 million Etch-A-Sketches in the last 10 years with only 10 accident claims. Killgallon said the accident rate for bicycles, for example, runs into the tens of thousands for each million sold.

"That's why we think this whole thing is ridiculous," he said.

Killgallon said Ohio Art has had only one court case, which the firm won, over Etch-A-Sketch. He said a child had fallen down a flight of stairs, injuring himself when he landed on the toy.

That is the typical accident involving the toy, Killgallon said, one that results from "misuse."

Ohio Art manufactures Etch-A-Sketch and is the distributor for the Wasp Cap Gun which is made in Italy.

Killgallon said his firm has distributed over four million cap pistols with only 10 reported injury claims.

The Consumers Union challenged the gun on grounds it "makes a noise louder than a jack hammer, and is dangerous to a person's ears."

Killgallon said none of the claims against the gun were "deafening."

A child will remove the powder from the caps and then explode the contents in a test tube from which an injury may result, he said, another case of misuse.

In the case of Etch-A-Sketch, the Consumer Union claimed a child could swallow the aluminum powder that is the toy's major component. Killgallon said, however, that the powder is non-toxic.

Greenfield To Recount Population

City Council of Greenfield in Highland County has ordered a second census count to be made in the corporation. Greenfield is one of five cities in Ohio which may return to village status according to the 1970 population census.

A city must have 5,000 population or revert to village status. Greenfield population dropped to 4,725 in the 1970 census count. According to Ohio law, the legislative body may, if it wishes not to accept U.S. Census figures, pass a resolution calling for the auditor to have a second census taken. The census is the responsibility, financially, of the city.

The auditor has five days within which to hire personnel and 10 days after that to have the enumeration completed. Greenfield Council adopted a resolution to this effect.

The incoming auditor-elect favored the recount saying "a mistake must have been made in 1960 or 1970 by the U. S. Census Bureau."

AEC Hears Complaints

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — A hearing board of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has given a coalition of citizens' groups until Jan. 5 to prepare a case against construction of the Davis-Besse Nuclear Power Station near here.

The Cleveland-based Coalition for Safe Nuclear Power argued unsuccessfully for a 90-day delay Thursday, and said the 25-day delay granted by the board would not permit time to gather anecdotal and engineering testimony against the proposed power plant.

The board began hearings Tuesday to consider the application of Toledo Edison Co. and Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. to build the plant.

The two firms have already started below-ground construction with AEC permission. They proposed Thursday that they be given a conditional license to start work above ground if the opposing coalition were given a long delay in which to prepare their case.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

It is usual to associate age with years only because so many people — somewhere in what is called middle age — stop trying.

NEW CAR WASH UNITS — Porter's Car Wash Inc. announces the completion of two additional car wash units. These two wand type bays employ the same high pressure wash-rinse-wax system as used in the two original bays. Hand scrubbing is eliminated by the use of high pressure (100 psi) heated soft water and an effective detergent. A third car vacuum unit has been added on the south side of the new bays. These new washing facilities are complimented by the popular "Follow Charlie" 90-second automatic car wash.

Television has made its mark and taken its toll on other forms of entertainment, such as the theater, the radio, and the attendance of many sports events. However, it is firmly believed that these forms of entertainment will never vanish entirely.

There will always be people who do not watch television for one reason or another, those who would rather listen than watch a program, and those who prefer to witness certain events in person.

Television is in its "hey-day." But, when the novelty of newness wears off, it will take its place among the many other mediums of long lasting entertainment.

For keeping your television, radio, and other electrical equipment in good working order remember we offer you expert service and satisfaction.
